

Natural Hoof Trimming Clinic

June 6th, 2009 Gillette, Wyoming with Mark Olson

Tired of soundness problems and poor hoof quality? Come learn about the difference Natural Trimming can make and how YOU can offer this to your horses, even if you've never trimmed a hoof before!

Mark Olson's "Hoofmanship" clinics are designed to teach the horse owner how to trim their own horse's hooves for a functional, healthy & balanced foot without shoes.

Natural Hoof Care Promotes:

- Natural extension with a heel-first landing
- Proper function of the hoof improving circulation and creating strong new growth
- A well attached hoof wall with increased hoof wall thickness
- Proper hoof alignment & natural balance
- Increased ability to feel the ground, improved shock absorption
- Increase stamina, healthier hooves equal healthier horses
- Relief and possible recovery from Navicular, Laminitis and other serious conditions

Mark Olson's Credentials:

- 30 + Years of Farrier Experience
- Pursuing Certification with Pete Ramey's AHA
- Natural Horsemanship Student of 16 Years
- Lifetime Experience in the Horse Industry
- Fully Insured and Bonded

Note the smooth hoof wall, perfectly worn by a wild, free-roaming horse. Wild horses on BLM land travel 18 to 20 hours per day on rocky, abrasive terrain. This is the model we strive to mimic with natural hoof care. Along with the trim, diet, exercise, and environment also play an important role.

Whether you have pasture pets or highly competitive performance horses, come see why so many horse owners are including Natural Hoof Care as part of a top of the line health care program for their horses!
